Office Action Summary

Art Unit: 1752

DETAILED ACTION

1. Applicant's election without traverse of Group II. claims 7-9 in Paper No. 5, filed June 26, 2002 is acknowledged.

2. Claims 1-6, 10-13 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim.

Election was made without traverse in Paper No. 5.

3. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

4. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

5. Claims 7-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Claims 7-9 are drawn to a plate-forming apparatus for scanning a photosensitive material but the material is never explicitly made part of the apparatus. However, claim 9 references the "photosensitive wavelength" of "said photosensitive plate-making material" not being longer than 400 nm. The limit of wavelength for the ultra-short pulse laser light is also limited at "not longer than 800 nm". To what does the limit of 400 nm for the photosensitive material address in the claimed apparatus except the laser used? Are these two limits for the same laser? The examiner does recognize that the doubled wavelength of 800 nm would be 400 nm but this does not address the issue as to what the limit of wavelength in respect to the photosensitive material acts upon the apparatus claimed if the photosensitive material is not required present in the apparatus claimed. Thus, claims 7-9 are confusing. Are these competing limitations?

6. Claims 8-9 are objected to because of the following informalities: In claims 8, "10ps" should be "10 ps" leaving a space between number and unit. The same is true of "800nm" and "400nm" in claim 9.. Appropriate correction is required.

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Wang (6,295,123 B1) teach the instant apparatus except for the modulator. Saaski et al (6,136,611) and Olive et al (4,093,852) address laser flare but not in printing plates.

8. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

9. Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Liu et al (US 2002/0074320 A1). The apparatus of claim 8 of Liu et al anticipates the apparatus of instant claim 7 wherein the means for setting pulse energy in Liu et al is the modulator of the instant application
